

This image shows a page from the Lindisfarne Gospels, featuring a complex interlaced knotwork and zoomorphic design in the left margin. The text is written in a medieval script, likely Anglo-Saxon, and is organized into two columns. The left column contains the text of the Gospel of Matthew, while the right column contains the text of the Gospel of Luke. The text is written in a dark ink, with some red ink used for initials and headings. The page is numbered '10' in the top left corner. The text in the left column begins with 'In diebus illis' and continues with 'et cum esset in synagoga eorum et legeret illis dicens et cum diceret et cum diceret'. The text in the right column begins with 'et cum diceret et cum diceret et cum diceret' and continues with 'et cum diceret et cum diceret et cum diceret'. The page is a good example of the high-quality craftsmanship and artistic skill of the Lindisfarne Gospels.

[Faint handwritten text from folio 10v, likely bleed-through or a separate column.]
