TABLES

DE MULTIPLICATION.

L'INSTRUCTION du 10 ventôse an 11, sur la levée des plans du territoire des communes de la France, prescrit, pour le calcul de la surface de ces plans, de diviser les figures en triangles.

Quoique ce mode de calcul soit rigoureusement exact, on ne peut cependant disconvenir qu'il exige beaucoup de tems et de soins.

C'est dans la vue d'abréger ce travail, que l'on a entrepris les Tables de multiplication, qui ont mérité l'approbation du Ministre des finances.

Ces Tables, auxquelles on aurait pu donner plus d'étendue pour en rendre l'usage généralement utile au public, sont au nombre de 500. Chacune occupe une page, au haut de laquelle est placé le multiplicateur, commençant par le nombre 2 à la première page, et finissant par le nombre 500 à la dernière.

On s'est arrêté à ce dernier nombre, qui a paru suffisant, attendu que l'on s'est assuré, par l'examen des divers cahiers de calculs, que rarement le multiplicateur s'étendait au-delà.

La première colonne, sur la gauche, contient les dixaines de multiplicande, disposées selon l'ordre naturel, depuis une dixaine jusqu'à 50 dixaines ou 5 centaines; et chacun des chiffres 0, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, placés en tête de chacune des dix autres colonnes qui sont à droite, représentent les unités du multiplicande; de sorte que chacune de ces unités étant ajoutée à la suite des dixaines du multiplicande, l'on a l'expression de tous les nombres entiers de ce facteur, depuis 10 jusqu'à 509, inclusivement. Dans chacune des dix dernières colonnes, immédiatement au-dessous des unités, et vis-à-vis les dixaines du multiplicande, sont indiqués les divers produits des deux facteurs de la multiplication.

Telle est la disposition de chaque Table; elle a l'avantage d'offrir, sans aucune confusion, dans une seule page de peu d'étendue, tous les produits de la multiplication de 500 multiplicandes différens par un même multiplicateur; on y remarquera que pour faciliter la recherche de ces produits, on a eu l'attention de séparer, de trois en trois successivement, tous les nombres renfermés dans chaque colonne de la Table.

Quant à la manière de se servir des Tables, elle est extrêmement simple et facile; un seul exemple suffira pour la faire connaître.

EXEMPLE.

Soit proposé 318 à multiplier par 201.

Prenant la Table du multiplicateur 201, je cherche dans la première colonne indicative des dixaines du multiplicande le nombre 31, et, suivant la ligne horizontale partant de ce nombre jusqu'à la rencontre de la colonne, au haut de laquelle se trouve désigné cet autre nombre 8 des unités qui complettent la somme du multiplicande, je trouve 63918 pour le produit demandé.

Il est d'usage, pour la commodité du calcul, de choisir pour multiplicateur celui des deux facteurs qui contient le moins de chiffres; ainsi, lorsque l'un de ces facteurs ne contiendra pas de dixaines, mais seulement des unités simples, l'on devra toujours prendre celui-ci pour multiplicateur; par ce moyen, le multiplicande, qui rarement contient moins de deux chiffres, se trouvera presque toujours exactement indiqué dans les Tables.

Néanmoins, s'il arrivait que chacun des deux facteurs ne fût composé que d'un seul chiffre exprimant des unités simples, dans cette circonstance (qui sera très-rare), il ne serait pas nécessaire de recourir aux Tables, parce que, comme il ne serait alors question que de multiplier deux des neuf premiers chiffres de l'arithmétique l'un par l'autre, tout le monde connaît naturellement le produit d'une multiplication aussi simple. Cependant, si l'on voulait se servir des Tables, on pourrait encore le faire par le procédé suivant :

Universitäts- und

Supposons, par exemple, que l'on ait le nombre 8 à multiplier par 3, l'on chercherait dans la première colonne de la Table du multiplicateur 3 le nombre 8, qui serait décuple du multiplicande, et l'on trouverait conséquemment dans la colonne suivante le produit décuple 240, qui y correspond; il conviendrait dès-lors de retrancher sur la droite de ce produit décuple, le dernier chiffre 0, et il resterait 24 pour le produit réel.

Quoique les divers multiplicandes, compris dans les Tables, paraissent être bornés au nombre de 509, ils sont néanmoins susceptibles d'être étendus à volonté. A cet effet, au lieu de considérer les nombres de la première colonne comme n'exprimant que les dixaines du multiplicande, l'on pourra supposer qu'ils expriment des centaines ou des milles; mais alors les produits correspondans dans la seconde colonne deviendront décuples ou centuples; l'on écrira donc à part ces produits avec l'addition d'un ou de deux zéros à leur suite, selon le besoin, et après avoir cherché dans la même Table les produits du surplus du multiplicande, on ajoutera ces produits supplétifs aux précédens; leur somme exprimera le véritable produit de la multiplication. Un exemple va rendre cette pratique plus sensible.

Soit donné 3184 à multiplier par 201, d'abord je cherche dans la première colonne de la Table du multiplicateur 201, le nombre 31 des centaines du multiplicande; mais comme cette colonne n'exprime réellement que les dixaines et non les centaines du multiplicande, je décuple le produit 62310 correspondant avec la deuxième colonne, et j'écris à part ce produit augmenté d'un zéro sur la droite, ci. . . . . 623100

Cherchant ensuite dans la même Table le nombre 8 des dixaines, et le nombre 4 des unités du multiplicande, je trouve dans la sixième colonne, pour produit correspondant à ces deux nombres, 16884, que j'écris pareillement à part au-dessous du produit précédent. . . . . 16884

Faisant enfin la somme de ces deux produits partiels, j'obtiens le produit total et définitif. . . . . 639984

Au moyen de ces Tables, qui ont été calculées et vérifiées avec soin, les géomètres seront dispensés de porter, sur les cahiers de calculs des plans, les détails de la multiplication. Il suffira qu'ils indiquent les deux facteurs et leur produit comme dans l'exemple ci-après :

On jugera facilement de l'avantage de cette disposition, en comparant la forme de ce cahier avec celle du premier modèle.

On objectera peut-être que la recherche des produits dans les Tables exigera autant de tems que l'opération même de la multiplication.

Universitäts- und
Landesbibliothek Düsseldorf

D'abord, cette assertion n'est pas exacte : l'utilité des Tables de logarithme en est une preuve ; et l'on achèvera de s'en convaincre par l'essai des nouvelles Tables.

On abrégera considérablement le travail ; en cherchant, pour chaque page d'abord, les plus petits facteurs, puis ceux plus forts, toujours en remontant. On a à multiplier l'un par l'autre les nombres suivans :

175 × 248
89 × 123
136 × 302
229 × 109
66 × 37
209 × 328

On cherche d'abord les nombres 66 et 89, puis on passe au nombre 136 et 175, et en suivant cette marche, on parvient, sans perte de tems, à remplir ses cahiers.

En admettant (ce qui n'est point) que l'usage de ces tables exige autant de tems que le travail même des multiplications, le calculateur en retirera toujours l'avantage précieux d'y trouver la preuve de ses calculs, sans se fatiguer l'attention.

Indépendamment de ces différens avantages, les tables de multiplication offrent encore un moyen simple et commode pour exécuter la règle de la division. Dans cette opération, le multiplicateur, désigné en tête de chaque Table, devient le diviseur, les produits de la multiplication forment le dividende, et le multiplicande est le quotient.

S'agit-il, par exemple, de diviser 63,918 par 201 ?

Je cherche dans la Table du multiplicateur ou du diviseur 201, le produit ou le dividende 63918, je le trouve dans la dixième colonne correspondre

Universitäts- und

au nombre 31 des dixaines, et au nombre 8 des unités du multiplicande ou quotient, et j'en conclus que le quotient est 318.

Ces exemples suffisent pour démontrer l'utilité de ces Tables, qui peuvent encore servir à la conversion des anciennes mesures en nouvelles, et à toutes autres opérations qui se font par la multiplication et par la division.
